Last Revision Date: April 14, 2022

This Notice Describes How Your Protected Health Information May Be Used and Disclosed and How You Can Get Access To This Information.

Please Review It Carefully.

Who Will Follow This Notice

This notice describes the medical information practices of the Archdiocese of St. Louis' Group Health Plan (the "Plan") and that of any third party that assists in the administration of Plan claims. This Notice describes the Privacy Practices of the health programs on Exhibit A offered under the Plan, which may be updated from time to time.

Our Pledge Regarding Protected Health Information

The Plan understands that your protected health information and your health is personal. The Plan is committed to protecting your protected health information. This notice applies to all of the medical records the Plan maintains. Your personal doctor or health care provider may have different policies or notices regarding the doctor's use and disclosure of your protected health information created in the doctor's office or clinic.

This notice will tell you about the ways in which the Plan may use and disclose your protected health information. It also describes obligations and your rights regarding the use and disclosure of protected health information.

We are required by law to:

- maintain the privacy of your protected health information;
- provide you with certain rights with respect to you protected health information
- give you this notice of our legal duties and privacy practices with respect to your protected health information; and
- follow the terms of the notice that is currently in effect.

The Plan reserves the right to change the terms of this Notice and to make new provisions about your protected health information that it maintains, as allowed or required by law. The Plan will provide you with a copy of revised Notices of Privacy Practices if any material changes are made by making it available to you upon request and by posting it on its website.

How We May Use and Disclose Your Protected Health Information

The following categories describe different ways that the Plan uses and discloses protected health information. Not every use or disclosure in a category will be listed. However, all of the ways we are permitted to use and disclose information will fall within one of the categories.

For Treatment. The Plan may use or disclose your protected health information to facilitate medical treatment or services by providers. The Plan may disclose protected health information about you to providers, including doctors, nurses, technicians, medical students, or other hospital personnel who are involved in taking care of you. For example, disclosure of information about your prior prescriptions to a pharmacist to determine if a pending prescription is contraindicative with prior prescriptions.

For Payment. The Plan may use and disclose your protected health information to determine eligibility for Plan benefits, to facilitate payment for the treatment and services you receive from health care providers, to determine benefit responsibility under the Plan, or to coordinate Plan coverage. For example, the Plan may tell your health care provider about your medical history to determine whether a particular treatment is experimental, investigational, or medically necessary or to determine whether the Plan will cover the treatment. Also medical information may be shared with a utilization review or precertification service provider. Likewise, medical information may be shared with another entity to assist with the adjudication or subrogation of health claims or to another health plan to coordinate benefit payments.

For Health Care Operations. The Plan may use and disclose your protected health information for other Plan operations. These uses and disclosures are necessary to run the Plan. For example, the use of medical information in connection with: conducting quality assessment and improvement activities; underwriting, premium rating, and other activities relating to Plan coverage, submitting claims for stop-loss (or excess loss) coverage; conducting or arranging for medical review, legal services, audit services, and fraud and abuse detection programs; business planning and development such as cost management; and business management and general Plan administrative activities.

As Required By Law. The Plan will disclose your protected health information when required to do so by federal, state or local law. For example, disclosure of medical information when required by a court order, in a litigation proceeding such as a malpractice action.

To Avert a Serious Threat to Health or Safety. The Plan may use and disclose protected health information when necessary to prevent a serious threat to your health and safety or the health and safety of the public or another person. Any disclosure, however, would only be to someone able to help prevent the threat. For example, disclosure of your protected health information in a proceeding regarding the licensure of a physician.

To Plan Sponsors. For the purpose of administering the plan, your protected health information may be disclosed to certain employees of the Employer. Those employees will only use or disclose that information as necessary to perform plan administration functions or as otherwise required or permitted by HIPAA. Your protected health information may not be used for employment purposes without your express authorization.

Special Situations

Disclosure to Health Plan Sponsor. Information may be disclosed to another health plan (as described by HIPAA) for purposes of facilitating claims payments under that plan.

Military and Veterans. If you are a member of the armed forces, the Plan may release protected health information as required by military command authorities. The Plan may also release protected health information about foreign military personnel to the appropriate foreign military authority.

Workers' Compensation. The Plan may release your protected health information for workers' compensation or similar programs. These programs provide benefits for work-related injuries or illness.

- to notify a person who may have been exposed to a disease or may be at risk for contracting or spreading a disease or condition;
- to notify the appropriate government authority if we believe a patient has been the victim of abuse, neglect or domestic violence. We will only make this disclosure if you agree or when required or authorized by law.

Health Oversight Activities. The Plan may disclose your protected health information to a health oversight agency for activities authorized by law. These oversight activities include, for example, audits, investigations, inspections, and licensure. These activities are necessary for the government to monitor the health care system, government programs, and compliance with civil rights laws.

Lawsuits and Disputes. If you are involved in a lawsuit or a dispute, the Plan may disclose your protected health information in response to a court or administrative order. The Plan may also disclose your protected health information in response to a subpoena, discovery request, or other lawful process by someone else involved in the dispute, but only if efforts have been made to tell you about the request or to obtain an order protecting the information requested.

Law Enforcement. The Plan may release medical information if asked to do so by a law enforcement official:

- in response to a court order, subpoena, warrant, summons or similar process;
- to identify or locate a suspect, fugitive, material witness, or missing person;
- about the victim of a crime if, under certain limited circumstances, we are unable to obtain the person's agreement;
- about a death we believe may be the result of criminal conduct;
- about criminal conduct at the hospital, and
- in emergency circumstances to report a crime; the location of the crime or victims; or the identity, description or location of the person who committed the crime.

Coroners, Medical Examiners and Funeral Directors. The Plan may release your protected health information to a coroner or medical examiner. This may be necessary, for example, to identify a deceased person or determine the cause of death. The Plan may also release protected health information about patients of the hospital to funeral directors as necessary to carry out their duties.

National Security and Intelligence Activities. The Plan may release your protected health information to authorized federal officials for intelligence, counterintelligence, and other national security activities authorized by law.

Inmates. If you are an inmate of a correctional institution or under the custody of a law enforcement official, your protected health information may be released to the correctional institution or law enforcement official. This release would be necessary:

- (a) for the institution to provide you with health care;
- (b) to protect your health and safety or the health and safety of others, or
- (c) for the safety and security of the correctional institution.

Your Rights Regarding Medical Information About You

You have the following rights regarding medical information the Plan maintains about you:

Right to Inspect and Copy. You have the right to inspect and copy medical information that may be used to make decisions about your Plan benefits. To inspect and copy medical information that may be used to make decisions about you, you must submit your request in writing. If you request a copy of the information, we may charge a fee for the costs of copying, mailing or other supplies associated with your request.

We may deny your request to inspect and copy in certain very limited circumstances. If you are denied access to medical information, you may request that the denial be reviewed.

Right to Amend. If you feel that medical information we have about you is incorrect or incomplete, you may ask us to amend the information. You have the right to request an amendment for as long as the information is kept by or for the Plan.

To request an amendment, your request must be made in writing and submitted to. In addition, you must provide a reason that supports your request.

To request this list or accounting of disclosures, you must submit your request in writing. Your request must state a time period which may not be longer than six years prior to the date of your request. Your request should indicate in what form you want the list (for example, paper or electronic). The first list you request within a 12 month period will be free. For additional lists, we may charge you for the costs of providing the list. We will notify you of the cost involved and you may choose to withdraw or modify your request at that time before any costs are incurred.

You also have the right to request a limit on the medical information disclosed about you to someone who is involved in your care or the payment for your care, like a family member or friend. For example, you could ask that we not use or disclose information about a surgery you had.

We are not required to agree to your request.

A Note About Personal Representatives. You may exercise your rights through a personal representative. Your personal representative will be required to produce evidence of his/her authority to act on your behalf before that person will be given access to your PHI or allowed to take any action for you. Proof of such authority may take one of the following forms:

- a power of attorney for health care purposes, notarized by a notary public;
- a court order of appointment of the person as the conservator or guardian of the individual; or
- an individual who is the parent of a minor child. This also applies to personal representatives of minors.

Right to Accounting of Electronic Health Records. If a “covered entity” maintains an “electronic health record” about you, you have the right to (1) obtain a copy of the information in electronic format and (2) tell the covered entity to send the copy to a third party.
