

Life's Intrinsic Value

*There were 620,000 abortions last year¹
The presence of Jesus is seeming to disappear
We admit that the kingdom of God is near
But for some reason stay silent; gripped by fear*

*Did we win after the end of Roe vs. Wade?
Is there now satisfaction after we hoped and prayed?
Are we in denial because we're afraid?
Have we listened to the unborn's cries for aid?*

*Some states are still choosing to abort
For some women, it seems like a last resort
People tell them that their list of options is short
They're the ones who need our support*

*But I'm a kid, can I join the fight?
Do I have the courage to do what's right?
When everyone else disagrees out of spite
How do I show them Jesus' light?*

Even though others don't think it's cool
I can join the pro-life club at school
I can let it be known, when I look like a fool,
I fear God: the one who makes my enemies a footstool

Standing up for life isn't really that hard
It can be as simple as making a card
We may not realize, but every ounce of regard
Keeps confused mothers out of baby graveyards

If we don't do anything, the cycle will go on
We have no telling where the line will be drawn
Our government's about to become a modern Babylon
The devil won't stop until the fear of God is gone

And in this fight, we kids are on the front lines
We have to stay strong while society declines
Yes, God is still present; he's sending us signs
How long are you going to stand on the sidelines?
